Clitus H. King Hero Of County Jail Fire; Calms Cell Inmates

but they were wildly excited and made all the more so by jibes of loafers who came into the yard from the Madison avenue side and frightened the prisoners by raising false alarms in a ghastly spirit of jest.

The squad of policemen charged the crowd, who were about 50, and chased them out of the yard. Attaches of the jail, arriving soon afterward, took up positions at various doors in the building.

Just before the policemen arrived was the most dangerous time with the prisoners. The women were nearest the flames but they merely screamed. The men, however, hollered and half a dozen of them furiously shook the window bars of their cells and jumped up and down in a frenzy of fright.

It was here that Attorney King, cool-headed and self-possessed, ran into the corridors and quieted the men. He assured them that there was little immediate danger. Then, heedless of himself, he procured a lantern and guided the firemen in fighting the flames.

Some of the hangers-on outside the jail said they saw some of the prisoners trying to beat their heads against the bars, but Attorney King declares the men didn't go that far. From the investigation of Chief Daniel E. Johnson this morning it is learned that the official belief attributes the fire to a spark from a shaving machine. Chief Johnson declares the spark must have flown many feet from the machine and settled on the floor, where it smoldered until the planks were set afire. The blaze must have been flaming at least 20 minutes, it is believed, before the fire was discovered by Attorney King.

The fire started in a room on the first floor of the workhouse, which is at the northwest corner of the jail. The floor is used by former Mayor Frank E. Clark in his manufacture of concrete blocks. This floor was gutted. The flames went through the second floor, which is used for leather work by James G. Mulloy of Haverhill, Mass. Much damage was done there and large quantities of materials were destroyed.

Former Mayor Clark estimates his damage at between $1100 and $1200. A piece of special machinery that was installed by him last July at a cost of $500, was damaged considerably. Several thousand dollars loss was suffered on the second floor. The total will not be far from $10,000. Mulloy is coming to this city this evening to appraise his loss. Everything was insured.

In some places the water was from three to six inches deep because the firemen were fighting the flames both from above and below.

Mr. King's story of the outbreak of the fire follows:
"I was going the rounds at the extreme front end of my territory when I heard voices yelling, 'Fire!' and I smelled smoke. I went to the prisoners and they told me that smoke was pouring through the jam of the big iron door. I ran up and pushed the automatic button connecting with the office."

"Some of the prisoners, of course, were difficult to handle, but most of them were calmed when I assured them that there was no danger just then and that if there were they would be released."

OBITUARY

FRANK CONNERY
Frank Connery died at his home, 181 Hurd avenue last evening. Mr. Connery was 40 years of age and he survived by his father and mother a sister, Mrs. Mary Shea and a brother, John H. Connery.

MICHAEL BUCKLEY
Michael Buckley, an old-time resident of Fairfield, died this morning after a short illness, at his home on Church avenue of this town. Mr. Buckley, who was about 75 years of age, was a retired farmer. He was born in Ireland but had resided many years in Fairfield. He leaves no one.

LEROY VISEL
Leroy Visel, 18 years of age, died last night at the Bridgeport hospital after a brief illness. The young man was an employee of the American Chain Co. His body was shipped to New Haven on the 2:23 train this afternoon where several uncles survive him.

JANE MACDOUGALL
Jane, wife of James MacDougall, died last evening at St. Vincent's hospital, after a short illness. Mrs. MacDougall resided at 185 Taft avenue and was a member of St. Patrick's church. She was 38 years of age and is survived by her husband, a son, and three sisters, Mrs. T. Ahearn of Meriden and Edna and Grace Spears, also four brothers, Joseph, Grover and Harry of this city, and George Spears of Meriden.

JAMES MCCARTHY
James McCarthy, a life-long resident of the South End, died last night at his home 724 Railroad avenue. Mr. McCarthy was a molder by trade and had worked in the Crane Co. No. 1 for many years. He was 59 years of age. He was a member of Court Pequotmonek, F. of A., and the Crane Relief Association, and belonged to Sacred Heart church. His widow and a son, Thomas McCarthy, survive him.

EMILY LOUISE HANDLEY

Every puzzle quickly solved: More merchandise!

The store meets the test of the final holiday shopping-day with confidence. It has been tested severely. All its resources have been called upon. But it has not failed. It will not fail!

For that final day—NEW FRESH MERCHANDISE. Some of it is being unpacked as this is written.

More is hurrying to us in fast-speeding trains; will come hasting Friday to greet shoppers!

Toyland offers hundreds of joy-givers for children.

Apparel sections, on the second floor, present many handsome things for women's and young folks' and children's wear.

Shoe store is a great big store in itself; a store blooming with Christmas footwear.

The book-shop has a book for every ideal and every age.

Of gloves, and handkerchiefs, and stockings, and umbrellas—a wondrous display still.

Jewelry and hand-bags, perfumes and little personal toilet dainties, pretty ties, handsome skating-sets of toque and scarf, fancy vestees and such, silk scarfs,—the entire front section of the main floor shines with gifts.

Down in the basement, light and cheery, ties and such for boys. "Such" includes new suits as well as skates and other rare-sport-insuring implements that Live Boy insists shall be left by Kris Kringle.

By elevator to the third floor and its rich novelties making art section radiant, its sturdy traveling-bags, its roomy suit cases, its fancy pillows, its cedar chests, its motor rugs.

Glow of soft light and sparkle of rich brilliant cut glass vie each with other on fourth floor. And silver, and fine china, and nickel, all try to outshine one another and the beautiful lamps.

Just-Right gifts for men.

Man is the worst puzzled of all, when it comes to choosing a gift. He will give no hint at all as to what he would like.

He will say: "I don't want anything. Spend your money on the kids." Or else: "Don't waste any Christmas money on me. Buy yourself something you'd like with the money."

What shall we do with such a man?

Suppose we pick for him something from this list of suggestions: some Just-Right gift; something that he can use or wear.

House-coat to slip into when he gets home for the evening. A welcome change from day's attire. Roomy yet trim. $5 and more.

Bath-robe made of a blanket that fairly breathes comfort. Dark or light, quiet or brightly, $5.50 and more.

Walking stick in light or dark wood and richly plain or trimmed effectively.

Umbrella that will shed rain. With a hooked handle so it can be hung on the arm, if a fellow traveler.

Flash-light to carry in pocket. Makes dark places light and ends hunting for key holes or groping upstairs.

Exercise to make Mr. Sober-sided keep himself in good condition and enjoy his meals. Easily put in place right in the bedroom.

Gillette or Gem Junior safety razor so he can shave quickly and cleanly without danger of cutting himself.

Keen Kutter knife as pocket companion. Always ready to cut a clean shaving.

Sweater to make keen breezes fall back in dismay. Medium or heavy weight, closely knit, great-wearing.

Overcoat or suit from a special list that is worth far more than the price of it.

Shirt of the great-fitting York make. May have either soft or stiff cuffs. Is of snappy new pattern or in quiet stripes or in pure white.

Reefer or muffler that keeps collar clean as well as keeping cold winds out. May be knitted silk or of soft fine wool.

Gloves of handsome tan hue or of quiet rich gray. Some of cape, are washable. Mocha are especially handsome, and wide in open-end shape. Pick as brilliant a color contrast as you like: such are stylish—and man really likes a bit of color.

Silk socks with a luster that shows forth their quality and the beauty of their color.

Traveling-bag of staunch leather. As big or as small as a man feels his journeys call for. Some are fitted with the toilet-things a man needs. Handkerchiefs of linen so soft and fine they delight a man. Have 'em plain or with initial, just as you know he prefers.

Shaving mirrors with cup attached and all ready to help make a clean shave sure. Some with little device for attaching electric light.

Military brushes with backs that can be firmly gripped and with bristles that make the hair lie smoothly in place.

Bill folds that slip easily into the pocket—and hold the bills with which one pays bills.

Calendar to put on or over his desk and carry its message of remembrance every day in the year.

Slippers of foot-resting sort that make the easy-chair twice as comfortable.

Suit-case that will hold all a man needs when he goes on a week's trip—and do it without "musing things up."

Fur cap for wear when motoring. Pulls right down over the ears; kills effort of Old Zero to make a chap uncomfortable.

Diary for him to keep a record of engagements in; saves a lot of errors.

Fountain pen that will write smoothly and quickly adjust itself to the hand.

Camera to go as companion on short or long journeys—and to keep a delightful record of them.

Box of soap, favorite toilet and shaving sorts are almost sure to be had here.

Change purse or tobacco pouch for daily carriage by "man" who is a bit particular.

Flask in leather casing—backs into traveling-bag very handily.

Card case or pocket cigar-case made of leather; don't bulge pockets out of shape.

Clever stick pin to brighten and beautify the new neckties.

Tie-clasp to hold tie in exact place.

Cuff links of the new patterns are rich and novel.

Waldemar watch-chains add the greatest touch of dainty and smartness you!

Rich gold watch—be and charms are graceful style and fine quality.

A good-looking watch in 20-year gold filled case will keep good time and is but $7.50.

Comb and brush sets that will both look well on the dresser and feel well on the head.

Smoking stands of brass. Place 'em alongside chair when reading or table when playing cards.

Reading-lamps that direct their rich soft light directly on desk or book; gas or electric.

Ash trays for smokers; brass or pottery, some of brass have special glass inner holder.
